

2 hours workshop

HOW TO WRITE A COMPETITIVE PROJECT PROPOSAL

Are you an early stage researcher or a doctoral fellow who is expected to apply for funding and write a project application? Not sure where to start or how to stand from of the competition? Get inspired during our workshop.

Writing a project application differs from writing a research article in many aspects. That is why the project writing needs to be based on different information and works with a different communication style.

To win funding you need to understand three basic things – the function of research grant applications, how and why grants are awarded and what helps applications to stand out oin competition. Our workshop will help you to understand these three areas and apply this knowledge when writing your project applications.

